Now you can add an essential edge to your trial preparation tactics – how to create persuasive demonstratives and work efficiently with trial graphic vendors. This all new trial graphics chapter written by Debra Murov of Envision Litigation Design in San Francisco, addresses the following topics:

- a basic understanding of good design
- how graphics can be effective
- different types and uses of graphics for various strategies
- where to find the right graphic designer and how to get the most out of working with local graphic vendors

– Excerpt from the new Trial Presentation Graphics Chapter

“An organizational chart is a diagram that illustrates the structure of a company, corporation or organization. Sometimes organization charts can show the relationship between key parties in the lawsuit or as a persuasive illustration of the hole created after a major restructure of a company’s department.”
